Commander's Report

Compatriots,

I hope that all of you have had a joyous holiday season with your family and friends.

The year ended with numerous commemorations of Veterans Day and the placing of wreaths during Wreaths across America. The pictures I have seen on Facebook and from emails shows that the SAR Color Guard played a prominent role in many communities across our nation. You are to be congratulated on this.

Since the last issue I have approved 12 medals -1 Von Steuben Medal, 11 Silver Color Guard Medals and 1 Molly Pitcher Medal. Please review the Color Guard Handbook for the qualifications for these medals as well as the National Von Steuben Medal for Sustained Activity. The application forms for these can be found on the National website.

Our next committee meeting will be during the Spring Leadership Meeting in Louisville on 2 March 2018. At this meeting there will be two major items of business:

The election of the 2018 SAR Colorguardsman of the Year. By the time you read this, the nomination deadline will have already passed. Please review the Handbook for the description of this honor so that you will be prepared to vote.
 Discussion and adoption of the Safety Policies & Procedures.

With respect to this second item, you will find the full Safety Policies & Procedures published in this issue of The SAR Colorguardsman. Please review the Safety Policies & Procedures carefully prior to the committee meeting. There will be limited time for discussion prior to a vote being taken, so please be sure to have any points of discussion prepared ahead of time.

I would like to thank the Ad Hoc Committee responsible for developing the Safety Policies & Procedures. They are Mark Kramer (CA) – chairman, Mike Tomme (GA), Robert Cunningham (IN), Tom Hankins (OH) and Scott Giltner (KY). There work will allow the committee to successfully meet the first goal set for the 2017-2018 year.

As a reminder, the following goals have been established for the National Color Guard for 2017 to 2018:

1) Establish published safety protocols and procedures with respect to Color Guard conduct and use of Guard conduct and use of weaponry at events.

2) Positively represent the SAR on the national, state and local level by member participation in historic events, celebrations, seminars, workshops, educational presentations and other venues.

3) Continue to provide suitable recognition of Color Guard members and others for participation in SAR events.

As with my previous column, let me end this column by once again stating my thanks to each Color Guardsman. You are the face of the SAR on the national and state level. Most importantly, you are the face of the SAR in your local community. I am truly honored to serve with each of you.

Mark C Anthony Commander

> Color Guard Goals for 201*8*

Compatriots,

I was hoping the California Society chancellor would complete his evaluation of this new law. However, I think is important to enlighten compatriots around the NS-SAR of this new California law.

California Assembly Bill No. 424 - Possession of a firearm in a school zone.

Signed by Governor Jerry Brown October 14, 2017. The new law went into effect January 1, 2018.

Existing law made it a crime to possess a firearm in a place that a person knew, or reasonably should have known, was a school zone, unless it was with the written permission of the school district superintendent, his or her designee, or equivalent school authority.

This bill deleted the authority of a school district superintendent, his or her designee, or equivalent school authority to provide written permission for a person to possess a firearm within a school zone.

This new law already had an impact on the California Society, Orange County Chapter, SAR. In December, 2017, before the law came into effect, a local principal refused to allow the OC Chapter Color Guard to bring muskets and edged weapons (swords, etc.) onto his campus. The color guard had been invited by a teacher to present the Colors during a play about United States history involving 5th grade students. The color guard did present the Colors without weapons.

The chancellor of the California Society is preparing guidelines regarding how California Society color guard units should deal with this law.

Be prepared. This type of legislation may spread to other states. I will keep you updated.

In Patriotism,

James C. Fosdyck

NSSAR Color Guard Vice Commander

National Historic Wite & Pelebration Events - 2018

Currently 27 recognized events by the National Historic Sites & Celebrations Committee

The calenders below list the events recognized by the National SAR Historic Sites & Celebrations and National SAR Color Guard Committees. The official events appear in the regular cells. Annual state society and chapter events that have been requested to appear on the calendars are included in the rows that are grayed out. Since the specific contact person can change frequently, the hosting state society or chapter is listed as the contact point. Compatriots wishing to get more details about a specific event are directed to contact the hosting state society or chapter. If a state or chapter wishes to have an annual event added, they need to contact the chairman of either committee. Please note that dates are subject to change, so compatriots are encouraged to confirm the actual date with the hosting entity. This is especially the case with the Battle of Saratoga as the National Park Service has indicated that it is considering holding two separate events with one focusing on the American side and the other focusing on the British. This plan may change into just a single event. Please confirm with the Empire Society and/or NPS for final details as the initial September event date approaches.

The following criteria must be met to be considered as a National Historic Site & Celebration:

- A recognized battle or event of the Revolution must have occurred at or near the proposed location
- Established history of an event being held by a NSSAR Chapter or State Society
- Evidence of participation by multiple NSSAR State Societies or Chapters and other organizations at the event
- The history of the event that indicates that it will continue into the future
- A written packet of information prepared for distribution to the Committee in advance and to contain:
- . Information about the battle or event
- o Evidence as to why it is important that the event be considered of national significance
- In a state with no Revolutionary War battle or event sites, an explanation as to why the proposed event should be considered of national significance

As a note, the National SAR Color Guard Committee recognizes additional holidays and events so that individual members can more easily qualify for certain Color Guard medals.

 The Massing of Colors is now applicable to any such event held in any location across the nation. As such, a Massing of Colors can be held on any date and still be considered a National Color Guard event. The date for the original Massing of Colors in Burbank, CA is used above. With the new designation of the Massing of Colors, this event along with Fields of Honor/Healing Field, Memorial Day, July 4th, Veterans Day and Wreaths Across America are considered National Color Guard events without a single location at which the event occurs.

* SAR color guardsmen who participate in a local event on the actual day or the weekend closest to July 4th, Memorial Day or Veterans Day can count that event toward the Silver Color Guard Medal and the Von Steuben Medal for Sustained Color Guard Service. This is limited to a single event. Multiple events on these days cannot be counted multiple times.

 Date Added refers to first appearance in Color Guard Handbook after approval by National Color Guard Committee. Those national events that do not have a date, were listed in the first edition dated 9/24/2000 thus signifying approval prior to that date. Events with Date Added next to them cannot be counted for Color Guard Medals prior to the earlier of the date added or the actual date the event would have occurred after it was added.

This is the current listing of state society color guard commanders with confirmed data. Those state societies that are not confirmed are asked to submit updated data to the editor. No Color Guards: Alaska, Arkansas, Dakotas, Delaware, District of Columbia, Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Montana, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont, and Wyoming .

Welcome compatriots.

I want to thank all of the color guard Commanders and members who took the time to submit photos and content for this issue.

This issue has 11 state societies submitting color guard activity from the last 3 months. I'm sure that every state with a color guard, either at the state level or the chapter level, will have some Fall activities to report for the Winter issue. These Fall activities could include Veterans Day, battle site commemorations, Wreaths Across America or any of the other events listed elsewhere in this issue. I will look forward to having those state color guard commander absent from this

I was pleased to have content from some states submitting duplicate copies of the same content from differ-

This is a good thing in that members feel comfortable enough to send something in.

So that it will be easier for me to collect, compile, and format the issues in the future, let's review the preferred steps:

Chapter color guard commanders, or a chapter officer, should submit their content to the state color guard commander for him to review and forward to me. This ensures that the state color guard commander is kept informed of chapter color guard activities - a Chain of command issue.

The preferred method of submissions is by e-mail with attachments.

Please do not embed photos into any document (WORD, e-mail, or PDF) submit photos separately from accompanying document. Embedding a photo reduces the res-

limits the photo size that I can use

When submitting content (photos and text) please consider this: The Colorguardsman is for spreading the news about color guard activities. Whenever your state or chapter color guard does something, that event information is what should be submitted. State or chapter presentations not involving the color guard are more appropriately submitted to the SAR Magazine. When compiling the issue, I look for and select those color guard activities over chapter non-color guard activities.

Thank you for your help. Please forward this issue to your state's chapter color guard commanders for dissemination amongst their color guard members.

On Sunday October 8, twelve members of the Connecticut Line/Living History Unit participated in the Governor Jonathan Trumbull, Sr. 308th Birthday event at the War Office Museum in Lebanon. This is one of three properties owned by the Connecticut SAR.

Gov. Trumbull was the only governor to side with the colonists, subsequently making him both the last governor of the Connecticut colony and the first governor of the state of Connecticut.

During the event, the Von Steuben Color Guard medal was presented to compatriots Lee and Randy Gerlander by Color Guard Commander Dave Perkins, for their continued service in the color guard.

On November 11, 2017 members of the Gov. Oliver Wolcott, Sr. Branch participated with various other patriotic and military organizations in a Veterans Day program by placing wreaths to honor our veterans. Color Guard members, Jim Klaneski and Jon King, represented the SAR at this ceremony which was held at Coe Park in Torrington. The Torrington Veterans Support Committee organizes this ceremony annually.

December 3, was the Annual Christmas Tree Lighting on the Lebanon Green with members of the Connecticut Line Color Guard at the Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, Sr. War Office. The event included the lighting of the Christmas tree, Christmas Carols, and a visit from Santa Clause. Following the program, visitors were able to stroll around the Green on the candlelit walking paths, visit the historic homes which were open for tours and enjoy the bonfire behind the Library.

Following the birthday ceremony outside the War Office, the unit participated in a grave marking ceremony at the grave site of Gov. Jonathan Trumbull, Sr. at the Lebanon Burying Ground cemetery on Exeter Road in Lebanon.

The 7th Ct Regiment, which draws its membership from the Hale & Huntington Branchs, as well as other branch members marked two cemeteries in Waterford on Veterans' Day. In each cemetery, a SAR bronze marker was placed next to one of the buried patriots. All graves were marked with new flags. The two cemeteries were Mullen Hill Cemetery with approximately a dozen patriot graves and Durfey Burial Ground with two known patriot graves. In addition to the grave markings the color guard unit awarded the Flag Certificate to Dean Rowe of Waterford, CT.

Members of the Gov. Oliver Wolcott, Sr. Branch of the CTSSAR performed a musket salute at the Wreaths Across America ceremony in Bantam, Connecticut on December 16th. Seven ceremonial wreaths, specially designated for the Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force, Coast Guard, Merchant Marine, and POW/MIA were placed at the All Wars Memorial. Wreaths Across America is a ceremony designed to: REMEMBER all soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines who served; HONOR their sacrifices; and TEACH our younger generations about the high cost of our freedoms. The Mary Floyd Tallmadge [Litchfield] Chapter of the CT Daughters of the American Revolution sponsors and conducts the Wreaths Across America ceremony in Bantam. Wreaths Across America ceremonies take place simultaneously all across the Country each year. photo by: J. Bryan Simmons, SAR Member

Compatriots,

I am pleased to announce that the Nebraska Society Sons of the American Revolution (NESSAR) has begun forming a Color Guard unit!

We have local Color Guards in both our Omaha and Lincoln chapters now, and are now working to advance the goals of the SAR in the state of Nebraska.

We encourage our Color Guard members to research and wear the uniforms of their patriot ancestors rather than wear a set uniform. We feel this helps demonstrate the variety of appearances that our ancestors had, and it makes it more personal for our members to understand and appreciate what their ancestors went through.

The NESSAR Color Guard had their first event with a Posting of the Colors and Retiring of the Colors ceremony at the Spring State Meeting for the NESSAR on April 10th, 2016. We have performed these ceremonies at our subsequent Spring and Fall state meetings since then.

In addition to serving our own organization, the NESSAR Color Guard has helped other organizations in Nebraska.

Nebraska

On March 4th, 2017, we performed a Posting of the Colors ceremony at the Wagon Wheel District Merit Badge University for the Boy Scouts in Bellevue, Nebraska. We felt we made a good impression by demonstrating our patriotism and respect of the flag for the youths at this event. Additionally, the local newspaper was in attendance and featured a photo of us during the event.

Most recently, the Nebraska Daughters of the American Revolution requested we perform a Posting and Retiring of the Colors ceremony at a grave marking event. This was held at Omaha's Forest Lawn Cemetery on October 7th, 2017, in which they marked the grave of their first Nebraska State Regent, Charlotte Parmer. Family members from five states were in attendance for this event, and many local DAR members as well. This was a great experience working with our sister organization in the DAR.

We are energized with every successful event we participate in, and hope to grow our numbers as time goes on!

For more information, you can find our website here: https://nebrsar.wordpress.com/nebraska-society/omaha-chapter/color-guard/

Respectfully yours, Chad Sherrets

On December 2nd, a crowd of over 100 gathered at the Great Bridge Presbyterian Church to celebrate the 242nd Anniversary of the patriot victory at the Battle of Great Bridge. The ceremony was moved from the battlefield site due to overlapping construction of the new Visitors' Center, which should be completed in time for next year's ceremony. President General Guzy presented the NSSAR wreath at the ceremony. Seven Color Guardsmen and one DAR Flag Bearer, all from Virginia, posted the colors at the beginning of the ceremony.

New Year - New Safety Officer

Probably the most controversial aspect in the document is the training requirement.

At the last leadership meeting I was surprised to be asked if I would be willing to accept the position of Safety Officer. Well without reservation I accepted honor hoping that I could continue the direction that our past safety officer, Compatriot Cunningham provided. Being a safety officer is not a foreign concept to me, having over thirty years in the fire service and having preformed that duty many times during training and emergency events throughout my career.

Within this month's publication of the SAR Colorguardmen you will be able to review a document that provides standard safety practices when firing our black powder muskets. The importance of setting national standards and policies for our organization cannot be understated. Without such standards and policies, we place our Chapters, State Societies and the National organization at risk.

Probably the most controversial aspect in document is the training requirement. The two training venues selected have three essential elements:

- Training is measurable to recognized standards
- Training is verifiable
- Training is documented

During the next Spring Leadership meeting in Louisville, KY, the Color Guard Committee will discuss the proposed Safety Recommendations and if approved will forward the Recommendations up our chain of command.

Before I close, most of us understand the explosive and destructive power of a M80 fire cracker. Did you know that an M80 contains between 4-5 grams of Black Powder? When converting from grams to grains that is between 61.7 and 77 grains; probably less then what we are loading in our muskets. Admittedly, the conditions are different but it still underscores the need for proper safety practices. Respectfully submitted,

Mark Kramer

YORKTOWN, YORKTOWN, VA, OCTOBER 19, 2017

Yorktown Day Celebrations, on October 19th, began with a ceremony at the tomb of Governor Thomas Nelson, Jr., who, during the Revolution, was a signer of the Declaration of Independence, governor of Virginia, and commanded the Virginia Militia at Yorktown. Later that morning the Color Guard led a contingent of 36 compatriots in the parade down Yorktown's Main Street. President General Guzy participated in the Color Guard wearing the uniform of the Royal Deux-Ponts Regiment of German speaking soldiers in Rochambeau's forces, who stormed Redoubt #9 at a critical juncture in the siege.

At Nelson's tomb, PG Guzy, escorted by NSSAR Color Guard Commander Mark Anthony, presents the NSSAR wreath to Virginia SAR Color Guard Commander Bill Schwetke.

Color Guard Safety Polícy & Procedures

THE FIRING OF ORIGINAL FIRE ARMS IS PROHIBITED.

Only reproductions that are manufactured for black powder are to be fired.

Foreword

This document is a culmination of discussions on items submitted to an Ad Hoc Committee established for the purpose of developing standard safety policy and procedures for the National SAR Color Guard.

The formatting of this document was divided into three sections with sub-sections: (1) Policies that are shall do or shall not do, (2) Event Procedures that are more how-to in nature and (3) Firing Commands which are the recommended standard for all firings.

It is the intent that once these Safety Policies and Procedures are adopted, that all color guard units – National, State and Chapter levels – will adopt and conform to these items. The final end of this process has been to develop a standardized method of performance so that a Color Guardsman may be able to easily perform at events regardless of where they are held in a safe and comfortable manner.

Policies

1. Any chapter that has members who fire a weapon will have a liability policy that covers the firing of Black Powder

2. All liability insurance policies shall name the respective State Society and National Society as additional insureds.

Training:

B.

Any member firing will be trained in the safe operation and firing of their firearm. The NRA-NMLRA Basic Muzzle Loading Shooting Course or the National Park Service's class in muzzle loading will be the recognized training standards.

1. The NRA-NMLRA is a one-time training that is good for a lifetime. 2. The National Park Service's training is offered several times at numerous National Park Service locations

Firearm(s):

C.

1. As the historical period being portrayed is the American Revolutionary War only muskets and rifles of that period listed below are allowed:

- a. British Long Land Pattern (Brown Bess)
- b. French Charleville
- c. Flintlock American Long Rifle
- correct for period d. American Fowler

2. Only reproductions that are manufactured for black powder are to be fired. THE FIRING OF ORIGINAL FIREARMS IS PROHIBITED.

a. Firearms will have a flash protector and frizzen/hammer stall cover.

b. Firearms will always be pointed in a safe direction.

c. Firearms will not be loaded until ready to fire.

d. Finger shall never be on the trigger unless firing firearm. e. Safety inspection will be performed prior to any event and immediately after an event. f. The minimum age to fire a musket is 18 years old and only by a trained member of the chapter. g. At no time will a member of the general public be allowed to handle any musket, rifle or edged weapon belonging to a member of the color guard. h. Firearms shall remain unloaded until instructed to load.

i. Charged rifles/muskets shall be carried at half-cock.

D. Powder:

1. Use and type of Powder is an area where there should be some discussion during a color guard meeting. There are three different recommendations:

• Recommendation #1

o Muskets will use FFFg and no more than 90 grains

o Rifles will use FFFg and no more than 70 grains

• Recommendation #2 o The grains of black powder loaded should be no more than 1.5 times the caliber of the rifle/musket with a maximum load of 100 grains.

• Recommendation #3 o Muskets will use FFg to a maximum of 100 grains o Rifles will use FFg to a maximum of 90 grains o FFFFg shall only be used in the flash pan and never down the muzzle (NRA muzzleloading class)

2. Firearms are to be loaded directly from a paper cartridge and NEVER from a powder horn.

3. Paper cartridges shall be discarded and not used as wadding.

4. A small brass powder measurer can be used for FFFFg in the pan.

5. Powder should only be kept in paper cartridges. No plastic cartridges or containers are allowed due to potential static electricity charges.

6. A ball or other projectile shall never be loaded into firearm.

a. BLANK CARTRIDGES ONLY b. Wadding/patches are never to be used for Color Guard purposes. c. Ramrods and/or other objects shall not be inserted into charged barrels.

7. Members participating in the gun salute should keep the black powder cartridges in a leather covered pouch or box with a flap that completely covers the opening. The pouch or box should be worn external to the members clothing (i.e. no cartridges should be kept in pockets or under coats).

Е. Edged Weapons:

1. All edged weapons (Swords, Bayonets, Halberds, Tomahawks/Hatchets, etc) will be kept in their scabbards until appropriate time for use.

2. Edged weapons at no time will be pointed at an individual. 3. Bayonets will only be placed on muskets during outdoor ceremonies and parades.

4. Halberds and Pikes will always be carried in the upright position and only pointed at the ground during a salute.

F. General Safety

1. Only natural fiber fabrics or leather will be worn if color guard member is firing or is next to a member that is firing. No clothing shall contain any gabardine, polyester or polyester like material.

2. All firing participants are recommended to have eye and hearing protection.

a. Eye protection that may be worn includes either period or modern glasses. (If the color guardsman has prescription glasses, there is no need to obtain period glasses. The purpose of wearing glasses is not for ballistic protection but to protect against powder flash. b. Hearing protection may be worn at the discretion of the color guardsman.

Event Procedures General:

1. Color Guard Commander, or his designee, will be responsible for enforcing the policies as much as practical; however, each individual Guardsman is ultimately responsible for his own health and safety including, but not limited to, obtaining the necessary liability insurance.

2. Color Guard Commander, or his designee, will be responsible for ensuring that adequate or other appropriate liquid refreshments are available for the participants.

3. It is the individual's personal responsibility to be aware of their physical limitations and to excuse themselves from parades or events that will exceed their capabilities.

4. At no time will a color guard member be impaired by alcohol or medication while firing.

Site Safety:

1. Check weather forecasts for the period of the event (i.e. high winds, high/ low temperatures, lightning, precipitation, and/or slick/slippery conditions). 2. Identify/provide appropriate shelter if practical.

3. When the potential for lightning exists, appoint an observer to monitor the proximity of lightning strikes to the event.

4. Provide drinking water/heated area as weather dictates. 5. Advise participants of any adverse weather conditions that may be expected.

6. Inspect color guard assembly area, route of march, and ceremonial area for hazards. Identified hazards should be managed by (in order of preference) removal of hazard, avoidance of hazard, or mitigation of hazard. Specific hazards considered should include:

a. trip/fall hazards,

b. low hanging obstacles (i.e. electrical lines, tree branches), c. potential falling objects (i.e. dead tree branches, falling nuts), d. potential breach of the down range perimeter after identifying the gun salute firing line, and e. combustable material in area (if gun salute is part of ceremony). 7. Ensure that no individuals, animals or combustible materials will be in front of the firing team for 150 feet. 8. Careful consideration should be made when firing between buildings or structures that will contain the blast and resonate the sound.

Safety Officer must be present at every event where firing occurs.

Firearm Inspection:

Pre-Event: The Color Guard Commander or his designate will perform the musket check procedure and document the Musket Check Procedure on the proper form. The inspection sheets will be kept in the Commander's Color Guard Binder.

The inspection will begin with ensuring that the musket/rifle is confirmed to be unloaded by pinging the ramrod. The Ramrod will be returned to its normal position after barrel has been confirmed that it is empty. This return will be documented

Lock

The Last Naval Battle of the American Revolution

On 9 March 1783, the Alliance, Captain John Barry and the Duc de Lauzun, Captain John Green, split up onto each ship their precious cargo of Spanish silver dollars that were badly needed by the Congress in Philadelphia. Off the coast of what would be today, Fort Pierce, FL, they completed the transfer and headed northward along the Florida coast. At this same time, the British ships, Alarm, thirty-two gun frigate, Captain Charles Cotton, Sybil, twenty-eight gun frigate, Captain James Vashon, and Tobago, eighteen gun sloop-of-war, Captain George Martin, met off of the coast of Cape Canaveral, FL and began cruising southward, looking for the American ships. The British ships were spotted by Captain Barry on the morning of 10 March 1783. Captain Barry decided to head southwest for the protection of the Spanish fleet, which he knew was sailing for a raid on Jamaica. As they tried to escape, the slower ship, the Duc de Lauzun lagged behind. Captain Barry slowed his ship for the Duc de Lauzun to come alongside and advised Captain Green to jettison his cannon to lighten his ship. A fourth ship appeared on the horizon and the British ships shifted their positions, one breaking off from the pursuit. Captain Barry decided that the fourth ship was an ally, so he made the daring move to engage the one British ship, Sybil, which was closing in, and thus buy sufficient time for the Duc de Lauzun to escape to safety. Captain Barry deliberately placed his ship between the Duc de Lauzun and the oncoming Sybil. The Sybil continued firing her cannon and the Alliance took several shots, one smashed into the captain's cabin killing a master's mate and wounding several others. Captain Barry left the quarter deck and personally walked from cannon to cannon encouraging and cautioning his men to not fire until he gave the order himself. He wanted to lure the enemy in as close as possible, "half a pistol range." The Alliance took a full broadside from the Sybil and still did not fire her cannon. At the last moment, Captain Barry ordered the main topsail hove to mast to position the Alliance directly abreast of the Sybil. At the order from Captain Barry the full fury of a broadside from his ship was unleashed upon the Sybil. The British guns went silent after forty minutes of close fighting; the Sybil lost two sails and had considerable damage to her hull. The Sybil quickly broke off from the fight and fled back to the other British vessels. Her casualties were reported to range up to thirty-seven killed and forty wounded. Thanks to the courage and skill of Captain Barry both American ships completed their mission and on 20 March 1783, the Alliance sailed into New Port, Rhode Island, abandoning the plan to return to Philadelphia given the strong presence of a British patrol. Sometime later news reached America that on 3 February 1783, the peace treaty had been ratified – the war for independence was over. Thus, the last naval battle of the American Revolutionary War was fought and won off the coast of Florida, just south of Cape Canaveral - sealing another American naval victory!!!

Post Event/Misfire Safety Check
1. The musket/rifle is confirmed to be unloaded by pinging the ramrod. 2. If the musket or rifle is confirmed to still have a charge due to a miss fire after pinging the ramrod then that musket or rifle will be taken away to a point of safety. A safety officer will be appointed to watch the clearing to ensure that all safety precautions are observed.

3. The pan will be re-primed and the musket fired.

4. If for some reason the musket or rifle fails to fire again the flint will be checked to ensure that the flint has not failed.

5. If the flint has failed then it will be replaced and the pan re-primed and the musket or rifle re-fired.

6. Once the musket or rifle has been successfully fired then another ramrod check will be done to assure there is no latent powder remaining in the barrel.

Firing Muskets in parades:

1. Color Guard Commander or his designee will ensure that the parade officials will allow the firing of muskets.

a. Parade officials should ensure that no equestrian units or other participants that object to being near the firing are placed near the color guard.

b. Color Guard Commander or his designee will advise parade officials and obtain approval of the locations where the firing will occur.

2. Color Guard Commander or his designee will make contact with the Law Enforcement liaison for the parade and advise him that the color guard:

a. Is firing.b. Locations where firing will occur.

c. Allow the local law enforcement to inspect firearms and powder.

 Color Guard Commander or his designee will make contact with the participant in front and back of the Color Guard advising each group that the Color Guard will be firing.
 During safety checks all ramrods will be screwed into the firearm to prevent use during the parade, and will be verified by the Color Guard Commander or his designee.

5. All other safety procedures apply during parades such as, but not limited to, no use ramrod in charged barrel or the use of paper cartridges or patches as wadding.

6. A non-firing Safety Officer will be assigned to monitor the safety of the Color Guard and the participants near the firing.

7. Color Guard Commander or his designee will ensure that at least one hundred yards separates the participants in front of the color guard from the color guard.

8. Firing will be aimed directly forward with muskets pointed upward with at a least a forty-five (45) degree angle and never over parade observers.

9. Color Guard Commander or his designee will post someone walking in front of the color guard at a safe distance warning the spectators that the Color Guard will be firing and young children should cover their ears.

10. Firing should only occur in open spaces or major intersections where the concussion will not damage building windows.

Firing Commands

1. The Designated Team Leader/ Commander, at the appropriate time, will give the order for the rifle/musket squad to: "Fall In ".

a. All firearms are to be unloaded at this time.

b. Team Members are to form a single rank, shoulder to shoulder with approximately 3 feet between each member

- Command will be given: "Present".
 a. At this time, the firearms will be shifted to the firing position and ele-vated to approximately 45 degrees.
- Command will be given: "Fire".
 a. Firearm will be discharged, and briskly rotated to loading position.
 b. Immediately repeat "Prime and Load" procedure and return to "Poise" when completed.

6. Repeat Command Series until designated number of volleys have been fired. After completion of last Volley, return firearms to the "Left Shoulder Arms".

7. If at any time an unsafe situation is identified by a participant in the rifle squad or an observer, the command "Cease Fire" should be given at which time the rifle squad will cease their actions and return to the "Poise Position". The rifles/muskets should be maintained with the muzzle positioned above head level and pointed upwards until further instruction is provided.

8. All guardsmen who are assigned to fire rifles/muskets shall be certified as to their competency by the State Society Color Guard Commander, his designee or the safety officer, based upon the following criteria:

a. Demonstrated knowledge of and compliance with the above stated standards.

b. Demonstrated efficiency in safely loading and firing the weapon.

Firing should only occur in open spaces or major intersections where the concussion will not damage building windows.

Acceptable Arms for Color Guard Usage

Only muskets and rifles of Revolutionary period listed below are allowed derivatives, all .75 caliber flintlock muskets, were the standard long guns of the British Empire's land forces from 1722 until 1838, when they were superseded by a percussion cap smoothbore musket. The British Ordnance System converted many flintlocks into the new percussion system known as the Pattern 1839 Musket. A fire in 1841 at the Tower of London destroyed many muskets before they could be converted. Still, the Brown Bess saw service until the middle of the nine-/teenth century.

British Long Land Pattern

Most male citizens of the American Colonies were required by law to own arms and ammunition for militia duty. The Long Land Pattern was a common firearm in use by both sides in the American War of Independence.

One hypothesis is that the "Brown Bess" was named after Elizabeth I of England, but this lacks support. It is not believed that this name was used contemporaneously with the early Long Pattern Land musket but that the name arose in late years of the 18th century when the Short Pattern and India Pattern were in wide use.

Early uses of the term include the newspaper, the Connecticut Courant in April 1771, which said "... but if you are afraid of the sea, take Brown Bess on your shoulder and march." This familiar use indicates widespread use of the term by that time. The 1785 Dictionary of the Vulgar Tongue, a contemporary work that defined vernacular and slang terms, contained this entry: "Brown Bess: A soldier's firelock. To hug Brown Bess; to carry a fire-lock, or serve as a private soldier." Military and government records of the time do not use this poetical name but refer to firelocks, flintlock, muskets or by the weapon's model designations.

Popular explanations of the use of the word "Brown" include that it was a reference to either the colour of the walnut stocks, or to the characteristic brown colour that was produced by russeting, an early form of metal treatment. Others argue that mass-produced weapons of the time were coated in brown varnish on metal parts as a rust preventative and on wood as a sealer (or in the case of unscrupulous contractors, to disguise inferior or non-regulation types of wood). However, the Oxford English Dictionary (OED) notes that "browning" was only introduced in the early 19th century, well after the term had come into general use.

Similarly, the word "Bess" is commonly held to either derive from the word arquebus or blunderbuss (predecessors of the musket) or to be a reference to Elizabeth I, possibly given to commemorate her death. The OED has citations for "brown musket" dating back to the early 18th century that refer to the same weapon. Another suggestion is that the name is simply the counterpart to the earlier Brown Bill.

French Charleville

The Charleville muskets were .69 caliber French muskets used in the 18th century and 19th century. In 1717, a flintlock musket for the French infantry was standardized for hunting. This became the first standard flintlock musket to be issued to all troops. While it is more correctly called a French infantry musket or a French pattern musket, these muskets later became known as "Charleville muskets", after the armory in Charleville-Mézières, Ardennes, France. The standard French infantry musket was also produced at Tulle, St. Etienne, Maubeuge Arsenal, and other sites. While technically not the correct name for these muskets, the use of the name Charleville dates back to the U.S. Revolutionary War, when Americans tended to refer to all of the musket models as Charlevilles. It should be noted that the naming of these muskets is not consistent. Some references only refer to Model 1763 and later versions as Charleville flint lock muskets, while other references refer to all models as the Charleville. The Charleville musket's design was refined several times during its service life. Later models of Charleville muskets remained in service until 1840, when percussion lock systems made the flintlock mechanism obsolete.

Charleville muskets had a smooth bore barrel. Rifles were more accurate than smooth bore muskets, but military commanders favored smooth bores on the battlefield, since the round from a rifle had to fit tightly into the barrel and became very difficult to load after a few shots because the black powder quickly fouled the barrel. The longer range and better accuracy of the rifle was also considered to be of little value on a battlefield that was quickly obscured by black powder smoke. Like all smooth bore muskets, the Charleville flint lock musket was only accurate to about 110 yd (100 m) against a column of men, or 40 to 50 yd (37 to 46 m) against a single mansized target.

The Charleville's .69" (17.5mm) caliber barrel was slightly smaller than its main competitor, the .75 caliber Brown Bess produced by the British. The smaller round was intentionally chosen to reduce weight in the field, but still had enough mass to be effective as a military round. The Charleville's stock was usually made out of walnut.

Charleville muskets were not used in battle like a modern rifle. Instead, Charleville muskets were fired in mass formations. In modern warfare, bayonets are considered to be last-ditch weapons, but in the days of the Charleville musket, they played a much more significant role on the battlefield, often accounting for roughly a third of all battlefield casualties. Muskets played a dual role on the battlefield, being used as a ranged weapon at a distance, and also being used as a pike type weapon in close hand-to-hand combat. This use as a pike dictated the Charleville's general length and weight. A shorter weapon could not be used as a pike, and its weight was a balance between being heavy enough to be used as a pike or club, but light enough to be carried and used by general infantrymen.

The rate of fire depended on the skill of the soldier, which was typically about three shots per minute. The Charleville's barrel was held into place by three barrel bands. This made the Charleville sturdier than the British Brown Bess musket, which used pins to hold the barrel in place. The butt of the Charleville's stock was sometimes referred to as the "patte de vache" (French for "cow's foot"), as its shape was designed to be used as a club in hand-to-hand combat.

Charleville muskets were muzzle loaded and used a flintlock firing mechanism. They typically fired a round ball but could fire other ammunition such as buck and ball or shot.

Flintlock American Long Rífle

The long rifle, also known as long rifle, Kentucky rifle, or Pennsylvania rifle, was one of the first commonly used rifles for hunting and warfare. It is characterized by an unusually long barrel, which is widely believed to be a largely unique development of American rifles that was uncommon in European rifles of the same period.

The long rifle is an early example of a firearm using rifling (spiral grooves in the bore). This gave the projectile (commonly a round lead ball) a spiraling motion, increasing the stability of the trajectory. A more stable trajectory meant dramatically improved accuracy over the more commonly available smooth bore muskets also used in the period. Rifled firearms saw their first major combat use in the American colonies during the French and Indian War, and later the American Revolution in the eighteenth century.

Until the development of the Minié ball in the middle of the 19th century, the main disadvantages of a rifle compared to a musket were a slower reload time due to the use of a tighter fitting lead ball and greater susceptibility to the fouling of the bore after prolonged use - such fouling would eventually prevent loading altogether, rendering the weapon useless until thoroughly cleaned. The adoption of the Minié ball essentially nullified these disadvantages and allowed the rifle to completely replace the musket.

The long rifle was made popular by German gunsmiths who immigrated to America, bringing with them the technology of rifling from where it originated. The accuracy achieved by the long rifle made it an ideal tool for hunting wildlife for food in colonial America.

The long rifle was developed on the American frontier in southeastern Pennsylvania, in the early 1700s. It continued to be developed technically and artistically until it passed out of fashion in the 19th century. The long rifle was the product of German gunsmiths who immigrated to new settlements in south eastern Pennsylvania in the early 1700s, and later in Virginia and other territories. Tax records from these locales indicate the dates these gunsmiths were in business. Strong pockets of long rifle use and manufacture continued in the Appalachian Mountains of Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio and North Carolina well into the 20th century as a practical and efficient firearm for those rural segments of the nation. Longrifles could be made entirely by hand and hand-operated tooling, in a frontier setting.

Initially the weapon of choice on the frontier was the smooth bore musket, or trade gun, built in factories in England and France and shipped to the colonies for purchase. Gradually, long rifles became more popular due to their longer effective range. While the smooth bore musket had an effective range of less than 100 yards, a rifleman could hit a man-sized target at a range of 200 yards or more. The price for this accuracy was longer reloading time. While the musket could be reloaded in approximately 20 seconds, the long rifle required more time for the average hunter.

In Pennsylvania, the earliest gunsmiths that can be documented are Robert Baker and Martin Meylin. Robert Baker formed a partnership with his son, Caleb and on August 15, 1719 erected a gun boring mill on Pequea Creek. In the tax records of Berks County, Pennsylvania, there were several gunsmiths plying their trade along the banks of the Wyomissing Creek.

Martin Meylin's Gunshop was built in 1719, and it is here that the Mennonite gunsmith of Swiss-German heritage crafted some of the earliest, and possibly the first, Pennsylvania Rifles. No single rifle has been found to date to be signed by Martin Meylin. Two have been attributed to him- one in the Lancaster Historical Society has been found to be a European musket of a later date and the other with a date of 1705 has been found to be a forgery- the Meylin's didn't arrive in America until 1710. The Martin Meylin Gunshop still stands today in Willow Street, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, on Long Rifle Road. An archaeological dig performed in 2005 by Millersville University around the so-called Meylin gunshop found no evidence of gunmaking activity among the thousands of artifacts found - only blacksmithing artifacts were found. The Lancaster County Historical Society has an original Pennsylvania Long Rifle smithed by Meylin that was passed down within the family for seven generations before being donated to the society in the middle of the twentieth century. This particular rifle was analyzed and the barrel removed during the Lancaster Long Rifle Exhibit at Landis Valley Farm Museum, Lancaster, Pennsylvania in 2005. The six experts on hand found the barrel was European and the stock itself dated from a later period than 1710-1750. The initials on the barrel "MM" were found to be added later than any other part of the gun, therefore it was concluded that the rifle in the Lancster County Historical Society could not have been made by either son or father named Martin Meylin. A document describing the history of Meylin, the Gunshop, and archeology of the shop is available online from Millersville University.

Some historians have written that the role of Martin Meylin as one of the earliest gunsmiths in Lancaster is not clear. The argument is that the will of Martin Meylin Sr. makes no mention of gunsmith items while the will of Martin Meylin Jr. is replete with gunsmith items, and thus the reference to Meylin as a gunsmith is more properly placed on the son. In any case, no rifle has been found to be positively attributed to any Meylin.

There is documentation stating that the first high quality American longrifles were from a gunsmith named Jacob Dickert, who moved with his family from Germany to Berks County, Pennsylvania in 1740. The name 'Dickert Rifle' was considered a 'brand name' and the name 'Kentucky rifle' was not coined until much later in history (circa 1820s) and became the "nickname" of this rifle. The reason for this is primarily because Dickert made rifles for the Continental Army and later had a contract dated 1792 to furnish rifles to the United States Army. There are internet references to a "Deckhard or Deckard Rifle", which is inaccurate, as there are no borough, township, or city tax records to support this name at that period of time and/or location.

Among documented working rifle makers are Adam Haymaker, who had a thriving trade in the northern Shenandoah Valley of Virginia, the Moravian gunshops at Christian's Spring in Pennsylvania, John Frederick Klette of Stevensburg, Virginia, and in the Salem area of North Carolina.[citation needed] All three areas were busy and productive centers of rifle making by the 1750s. The Great Wagon Road was a bustling frontier thoroughfare, and rifle shops traced this same route - from eastern Pennsylvania, down the Shenandoah Valley, and spilling into both the Cumberland Gap into Kentucky and the Yadkin River (Salem) area of North Carolina.

The settlers of western Virginia (Kentucky), Tennessee, and North Carolina soon gained a reputation for hardy independence and rifle marksmanship as a way of life, further reinforced by the performance of riflemen in the American Revolution, especially Morgan's Riflemen, who were pivotal in both the Battle of Saratoga and the Battle of Cowpens, as well as the War of 1812. In that war, the long rifle gained its more infamous nickname the Kentucky Rifle, after a popular song "The Hunters of Kentucky," about Andrew Jackson and his victory at the Battle of New Orleans.[citation needed] The American long rifle also was used by the Texans in their War for Independence from Mexico.

The reason for the American long rifle's characteristic long barrel is a matter of adaptation to the new world by the German immigrant gunsmiths. The German gunsmiths working in America were very familiar with German rifles, which seldom had barrels longer than 30 in., and were large caliber rifles using large amounts of lead. The new world forests were vast and required hunters to carry more of their supplies with them. The smaller caliber rifles gave them more ammunition and reduced the amount of weight they needed to carry on a hunt. The longer barrel gave the black powder more time to burn, increasing the muzzle velocity and accuracy. A rule of thumb used by some gunsmiths was to make the rifle no longer than the height of a customer's chin because of the necessity of seeing the muzzle while loading. The longer barrel also allowed for finer sighting. By the 1750s it was common to see frontiersmen carrying the new and distinctive style of rifle.

American Fowler

Most early firearms, such as the blunderbuss, arquebus, and musket had large diameter, smoothbore barrels, and could fire shot as well as solid balls. A firearm intended for use in wing shooting of birds was known as a fowling piece. The 1728 Cyclopaedia defines a fowling piece as: Fowling Piece, a portable Fire Arm for the shooting of Birds. ...

For example, the Brown Bess musket, in service with the British army from 1722 to 1838, had a 19 mm (.75 inch) smoothbore barrel, roughly the same as a 10 gauge shotgun, and was 157 cm (62 in) long, just short of the above recommended 168 cm (51/2 feet). On the other hand, records from the Plymouth colony show a maximum length of 137 cm (41/2 feet) for fowling pieces, shorter than the typical musket.

Shot was also used in warfare; the buck and ball loading, combining a musket ball with three or six buckshot, was used throughout the history of the smoothbore musket. The first recorded use of the term shotgun was in 1776 in Kentucky.
